ARTIST SUSPECT IN RAPE-DEATH IS ELIMINATED

New York Police Round Up Delivery Boys in Their Inquiries

New York, April 14—(AP)—A Greenwich Village artist was eliminated from the baffling Nancy Evans Titterton murder case today after police determined he was not the tall, blonde man seen near the strangled author's apartment.

Herman W. Horstmann, 26, was questioned after he was arrested on a charge of violating the Sullivan gun-carrying law, but Assistant Chief Inspector John A. Lyons said: "He is out of the picture completely and has no bearing on the case whatever."

Horstmann has light brown hair, a midtown modish had told police a tall, blonde man had given her two worthless checks, and neighbors of Mrs. Titterton in exclusive Beekman Place had reported a man of similar appearance in the vicinity.

While detectives pushed a wide search for strangers seen at various times in Beekman Place, police scientists worked in their laboratories for the fourth day examining articles found in the Titterton apartment.

Police ordered a roundup of delivery boys in Beekman Place in the hope of finding clues to the slayer. Pointing out that these boys had easy access to the apartment building, they considered not only the possibility that one of them might have seen a stranger but that a youth delivering the package might be the actual criminal.

A 13-inch cord found near the slain woman's body, the officers said, might have been torn from a package. The ends were frayed, showing it had been broken rather than cut.

Purse Found Empty
Furthermore, they expressed the belief a small sum of money had been taken from Titterton's purse, which was found empty.

Dr. Alexander O. Gettler, chief city toxicologist, said conclusive tests showed Mrs. Titterton was alive last Friday when placed nearly nude in the bathtub by her slayer. The same tests proved there was water in the tub, although it was empty when the body was found several hours later.

Some water was found in the lungs, but Dr. Gettler explained strangulation rather than drowning caused death.

Dixon Rod-Gun Club to Present Moving Picture Wednesday

"In Quest of the Bronzeback," is the title of an interesting motion picture which will be shown Wednesday evening at 7:30 at the Kennedy music store on East First street. The film has been obtained by the Dixon Rod & Gun club, and is one of a series to be shown during the summer season, for the entertainment of fishermen and sportsmen of Lee county. No charge is to be made for the entertainment, and all who are interested are invited to attend.

The film is centered around the sportiest and hardest fighting species of bass which is sometimes called the "bronzeback." At Lake Weslemoon, Ontario, a party of anglers meet, cast and agree with this version and the motion pictures will depict their activities.

At the close of the showing of the film, a business meeting will be held at which time a date will be decided upon for the appearance in Dixon of Ozark Ripley, one of the country's foremost sportsmen, who is scheduled to address a gathering of men and women at the close of a dinner.

France Refuses to Allow Zeppelin to Fly Across Country

Berlin, April 14—(AP)—The German air ministry said today permission for the Graf Zeppelin, making another flight from Friedrichshafen to South America, to fly over France was refused by the French government.

The Graf, commanded by Hans von Schiller, left Friedrichshafen at 7:10 P. M., yesterday, bearing 16 passengers, mails and freight on the voyage over the South Atlantic.

The air ministry said the Zeppelin's route lay by way of the Netherlands, making the trip 10 hours longer, since a French permit to fly over that territory, was denied.

The Graf was loaded with sufficient fuel to make unnecessary an intermediate landing at Seville, Spain.

FOUR INDICTED BY BUREAU CO. JURORS MONDAY

(Telegraph Special Service)
Princeton, April 14—The Bureau county grand jury returned two indictments in circuit court Monday afternoon after a session held in a temporary jury room at the Moine garage on West Marion street.

One true bill holds Joseph Trillet, 22, of Spring Valley for the murder of his father, Octave Trillet, on February 26, and State's Attorney Josef Skinner intimated today the youth will plead guilty. Trillet is alleged to have shot his father when the latter upbraided him for forging a check to buy a radio.

The other indictment is against Earl Fox, Ford Blackburn and Harry Walzer, all of Mendota, who are charged with robbing the Clyde Howard service station of Five Points, January 14. Each is being held under bonds of $2,000.

Weyerhaeuser's Big Estate Is Filed At $531,645.83 Value

Tacoma, Wash., April 13—(AP)—An inventory of the estate of the late John R. Weyerhaeuser, Tacoma lumberman who died in May, 1935, was filed in Pierce county superior court today, showing a total value of $531,645.83. Personal property totaled $380,445.83 and trusts funds $151,200. Under the will, the estate will be divided among nine children and grand children, including George Weyerhaeuser, youthful victim of a kidnapping here last summer. Other beneficiaries are John P. Weyerhaeuser, III, father of the kidnapping victim; Elizabeth Weyerhaeuser, and Edward John and Jane Titcomb, all of Tacoma; also Vivian O'Gara Weyerhaeuser and Lynn Weyerhaeuser, St. Paul, Minn.

Hessian Flies Were Damaging To Winter Wheat In Illinois

Springfield, Ill., April 14—(AP)—Much winter wheat acreage in the southern portion of Illinois has been abandoned because of a heavy Hessian fly infestation last fall, according to the report of the state and federal departments of agriculture.

A joint survey issued yesterday estimated the April 1 condition of the crop at 69 per cent, compared with 89 last year and 76 for the 10-year period of 1926-1935. The crop prospects were placed at 28-420,000 bushels, however, compared with 26,506,000 bushels last year.

"Missing" Mother of Young Film Star Shows Up in California to See Freddie Today or Tomorrow

Los Angeles, April 14—(AP)—Mrs. Lillian Bartholomew looked forward today to a reunion with her curly-haired actor son, at the end of 6,500 mile "mother's duty" journey just ten days ahead of the legal deadline on a chance to regain custody of him.

The meeting was to be arranged today or tomorrow, through attorneys for Mrs. Bartholomew and the boy's guardian aunt, Miss Millicent Bartholomew.

Twelve-year-old Freddie has become famous, in the $1,000-a-week salary class, since his mother last saw him in their native England two years ago.

IDLENESS WILL BE UNKNOWN IN PRINCETON SOON

Widening of Peru Street Will Absorb All Unemployed, Belief

(Telegraph Special Service.)

Princeton, April 14—The completion of the widening of Peru street from Euclid east to the city limits, a project which was started last summer, will be undertaken this summer and will doubtless eliminate all unemployment in Princeton and vicinity, since the work on the court house will require about 94 men during the work season and the sewer project employs 65.

It was announced at last evening's meeting of the city council that the street widening will be financed by the city's share of the refunded gasoline tax. City Clerk Clarence Anderson stating that Princeton's refund for eleven months amounts to $7,265.80, of which the city has received only $442.72.

The commissioners were informed by Commissioner Frank Higgins of the department of health and safety that the 90-minute parking rule on Main street is now in effect, the necessary signs having been erected. The police have been instructed to enforce the measure to the letter.

School Nurse Alene Prince reported to the council a few cases of head colds and 22 cases of mumps as the only illness among Princeton school children.

Spanish Republic Anniversary Date Marked By Riots

Madrid, April 14—(AP)—One police lieutenant was killed, another was seriously wounded, and a number of civilians were killed and beaten in the capital today during a celebration of the fifth anniversary of the founding of the republic.

The disorders began when a series of bombs were exploded behind the president's reviewing stand as a military parade passed through the center of the city.

Police expressed the belief that Fascists were behind the incident, as a demonstration against the republic.

Indications in reliable quarters were that a "no bill" would be returned, freeing the former Trenton druggist of a murder complaint in connection with the kidnapping-slaying of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., for whose death Hauptmann died in the electric chair.

The jury meeting followed a third futile attempt to get the New Jersey legislature to investigate the Lindbergh case.

Inquiry Tabbed
A resolution by Assemblyman Basil B. Bruno for an inquiry into the acts of all officials connected with the case, including Gov. Harold G. Hoffman and the state police, was tabled by the assembly last night 57 to 1. Two similar resolutions met defeat a week ago.

Whispers of "politics" were heard as the grand jury resumed its study. The most persistent was that the grand jury would adjourn without taking action until after the primary elections, in which Hoffman is opposed for delegate-at-large to the Republican national convention because of his activities on Hauptmann's behalf.

The refusal of Dr. John F. (Jafie) Condon to accept an invitation to appear before the grand jury was accepted as final.

Warmer Weather Greeting Voters at Illinois Polls

Chicago, April 14—(AP)—Warmer weather with local showers greeted voters of Illinois today as they crowded to the polls to cast their primary ballots.

Light rain and overcast skies were the portion of Chicagoans during the first hour of balloting, but a bright sun then dispelled the clouds. Weather Forecaster C. A. Donnel said the showers probably were at an end for the northern part of the state.

Southern Illinois, he said, could look forward to showers throughout the day.

The temperature reached 62 degrees in Chicago at 10 A. M.

New Jersey Jurors to Wind Up Inquiry Speedily

Trenton, N. J., April 14—(AP)—The Mercer county grand jury ordered a continuous session, without a luncheon recess, today in an effort to end speedily its investigation of Paul H. Wendel, whose repudiated "confessions" delayed the electrocution of Bruno Hauptmann.

Indications in reliable quarters were that a "no bill" would be returned, freeing the former Trenton druggist of a murder complaint in connection with the kidnapping-slaying of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., for whose death Hauptmann died in the electric chair.

The jury meeting followed a third futile attempt to get the New Jersey legislature to investigate the Lindbergh case.

Operations Fail To Save Another Sun Racer Victim

Uniontown, Pa., April 14—(AP)—The crash of the luxury air transport, Sun Racer, a week ago today, claimed as its twelfth victim C. G. Shallinor, the only man to escape instant death in the Chestnut Ridge disaster.

The 42-year-old Cleveland engineering expert died in a hospital last night after submitting to two operations for amputation of part of his left leg.

Doctors reported Mrs. Hilda Elfenstein of Newark, N. J., who also suffered fractures of both legs, shows constant improvement. The only other survivor, Nellie Granger, hostess on the Sun Racer, was denied visitors when a fever developed. The little heroine of the crash, who walked miles through the woods to tell of the wreck, is suffering from shock.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 14—(AP)—Triplet sons born here to a Milwaukee, Wis., couple struggled in three cribs at the William H. Coleman hospital for women today.

The parents are Mr. and Mrs. John H. Fenwick. The mother came here from Frankfort, Ind., to enter the hospital. She had been visiting her parents at Frankfort.

Mrs. Fenwick, 27, taught school at Shelbyville, Ill., before her marriage last June. She is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin. The father is a Purdue University graduate.

Hospital attendants said the mother and babies are "doing nicely." The triplets had a total weight of 12 pounds, 14 ounces.

HOLD OUT HOPE FOR THREE MEN

Nova Scotia Miners Expected to Save Entombed Trio

Moose River, N. S., April 14—(AP)—Rescue crews, peering down through an abandoned shaft in the Moose River gold mine, saw a glimmer of hope today for three men, trapped far below on the operating level for nearly 36 hours.

Rock dislodged by a cavein Sunday night appeared not to be packed closely in the old passage.

The rescue workers believed if they could penetrate a barrier before them they might find a virtually open path to the 141-foot level where Dr. D. E. Robertson, Herman R. Magill and Alfred Scadding were entombed.

Foreman Confident
The crew had descended more than 50 feet, and Mine Foreman F. D. Henderson expressed confidence they would get through to the trapped men.

"I am sure they are alive," the 60-year-old veteran of Canada's gold fields declared.

Drilling machinery was rushed in from Caribou mines to the Moose River mine, reopened three months ago after a shutdown.

Wood fire smoke again ascended from fissures in the mine. Rescuers said they believed the smoke indicated that the entrapped men were alive and that there was plenty of oxygen for them to breathe.

LOWDENS TO EUROPE

Chicago — Refusing to discuss politics, former Gov. Frank O. Lowden, accompanied by Mrs. Lowden, left by train for New York to board the Europa for a six-week vacation abroad. He has been mentioned as possible keynote of the Republican national convention at Cleveland in June.

Friends he baffled with feats of legerdemain talked today of Howard Thurston's interest in the question of life after death as the magician's body was prepared for a final journey.

He was reported to have formed an agreement with three others—all since dead—to attempt a reunion beyond the grave.

Mrs. Thurston declined to comment on the strange pact—made by Thurston, Harry Houdini, another famed magician, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, British spiritualist, and author; and Howard J. Carter, who died recently in India.

Pneumonia following a cerebral hemorrhage was fatal yesterday to Thurston, whose interest in magic caused him to give up his studies for the ministry. He was 66.

He advanced from backstreet theatres to performances before royalty. One of his friends was King Edward VIII of England.

Mrs. Thurston will accompany the body to Columbus, Ohio, his birthplace, for burial.

Shortly before 11 o'clock this morning reports from Harmon township indicated but 35 ballots being cast in that precinct. Assistant Chief L. A. Taylor set up a special camp of 150 state policemen, owing fealty to the Horner administration, in a downtown hotel, issuing orders to quell disorders. Chairman Alexander McKay of the election board declared the police had "no jurisdiction" and asserted he would "look into it."

State Police Active

A new high in balloting was predicted by Jacksonville election officials. At Rockford, Republicans were casting about five votes for each three recorded by the Democrats. Officials estimated that more than 25 per cent of the registered city vote of 37,000 had been cast by 11 A. M., CST, and predicted that about 70 per cent of the registered voters would participate in the primary.

RECORD POLL IS EXPECTED TODAY THROUGH STATE

Republicans' Hopes Are Bolstered in Many Communities

Chicago, April 14—(AP)—Predictions that the Illinois primary vote would smash all records were made today as the most intensive campaign in years brought voters swarming to the polls.

Violence in Chicago accompanied a record turnout, as downstate voters peacefully jammed the voting booths.

First reports of balloting led County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki of Chicago to predict that the Chicago total might hit an all-time high of 1,289,000. More than 1,000 ballots will be cast downstate, it was indicated.

A bitter rough and tumble contest for the Democratic nomination for governor and a struggle between Senator William E. Borah and Col. Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, for Republican presidential preference, created intense interest.

Salute of Bullets
The voting in Chicago, where tension was high, opened with a salute of police bullets, dispatched as four election workers were reported abducted. Complaints of mistreatment of political workers came chiefly from supporters of Gov. Henry Horner, battling the Chicago Democratic organization for renomination against Dr. Herman N. Bunden.

One wholesale arrest was made. Police Capt. Patrick J. Collins seized 21 men he claimed were "all known ex-convicts." He asserted they were doing election patrol work for Gov. Horner.

It was indicated that the hot Democratic fight, plus the party's expedient for a big testimonial vote for President Roosevelt, would bring the state-wide Democratic total to record heights.

1934 Trend Reversed
In early counts at Springfield and Danville, however, Republicans ousted Democrats, reversing the 1934 trend.

The first two kidnap victims were identified as Horner workers in complaints to the election board. The two were bundled into the kidnapers' cars by force.

The two victims seized later, witnesses said, were menaced with pistols by three men who forced them to leave their own car and enter a waiting sedan.

One of the victims was believed, through a brief case found in the abandoned coupe, to be Attorney Marvin J. Bas, president of the Len Small for Governor Club. The club supports former Governor Small for the Republican nomination.

G. O. P. Hopes Bolstered
While Republican hopes for a comeback were bolstered by reports from Danville and Springfield, sample counts in Chicago showed an early lead of about 2-1 for the Democrats. Southern Illinois reports told of a heavy Democratic vote in Jefferson, Washington and Gallatin counties.

Hottest spot on the Chicago scene was the 24th ward. Horner headquarters claimed to have dozens of reports that their workers were being "pushed around" in that bitterly disputed area.

Stories of slugging, ballot box stuffing, and claims that bands of hoodlums were roving the wards piled into the election board's office.

State Police Active
Assistant Chief L. A. Taylor set up a special camp of 150 state policemen, owing fealty to the Horner administration, in a downtown hotel, issuing orders to quell disorders. Chairman Alexander McKay of the election board declared the police had "no jurisdiction" and asserted he would "look into it."

Court Refuses to Name Physicians
to Examine 'Mother'

Kahoka, Mo., April 14—(AP)—Circuit Judge Walter A. Higbee declined today to appoint a commission of physicians to examine Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muench regarding her claim to motherhood of her "gift from God" baby.

The offer to submit the 44-year-old defendant to an examination was made by her attorneys as she completed her testimony on her trial on a charge of conspiracy to obtain illegal possession of a child.

"There can be no objection to her own physician coming in here and testifying," Judge Higbee said. "You may hire as many physicians as you wish, but this court is not going to appoint anyone."

In her closing testimony, Mrs. Muench asserted a "Dr. Ralph Williams" treated her immediately after she gave birth to her child on Aug. 18. She said she was unattended at the actual birth.

She also named a "Dr. Elam of St. Joseph, Mo." as a physician who made a physical examination, after the birth and verified her motherhood.

3-000-Mile Journey:
Part on Snow Shoes
is Ended in Clinic

Rochester, Minn., April 14—(AP)—A 3,000 mile trip starting with 300 miles on snowshoes in a bitter Alaskan winter brought a sick man to a Rochester clinic today for treatment.

He was Charles Hagerman, a placer miner who became ill a month ago at the remote mine he shared with four other sourdoughs. With two companions, the sick man set out on snowshoes for Hazelton, Alaska, the nearest railroad point, 300 miles away. The temperature ranged down to 70 below zero. They made it in 17 days.

Hagerman took a train from Hazelton to the coast, a steamer to Seattle and another train to Rochester.

A PRINCELY KISS
By Joseph Fort Newton

A friend of mine in London sends me what he called "the most wonderful story ever told of King Edward VIII," and he adds, "It is not only a true story, but this version is the true one."

As Prince of Wales the new king was asked one day if he would visit a little private hospital in which 36 men, terribly injured in the world war, were fighting a desperate battle for life.

The prince named the day, and drove privately to the hospital. In the ordinary way he went round the beds, speaking a kind word to each man, and was then conducted to the door by one of the staff.

"I was told you had 36 patients. I have seen only 29," he said. It was explained that the other even were so horribly disfigured that the visit to their ward had been purposely omitted.

But the prince insisted on seeing them. He was ushered into the room where they lay, and at each bed he stopped for some minutes, thanking each man in the name of England for the sacrifice he had made.

"There are only six men here," said the prince. "Where is the seventh?" He was told that nobody could see the seventh man. Blind, deaf, disfigured out of the likeness of humanity, he was kept in a room to himself. It would do no good to see the man, he would not know it.

"I must see him," said the prince. Better not, sir; it is terrible," said his attendant. "Still, I wish to see him," the prince persisted. One member of the staff accompanied the prince into the darkened room.

The prince walked firmly to the bedside. As he looked down at the man he turned very white, but stood there with bowed head, looking at a man who could neither see him nor hear him—a shattered wreck of a man, an awful symbol of the final anguish and tragedy of war.

Deeply moved, unable to speak, slowly the prince stooped down and kissed the man's face. "When he rose," said the man who stood near, watching him, "it was as if another Presence had come into the room!"

Thus the story stands, duly recorded by the clerk to the Privy Council.

NAMES OF SCORE OF WOMEN PRINT- ED ON BALLOTS

Mrs. Bertha Baur Most Widely Known of Fem- inine Candidates

Chicago, April 14.—(AP)—Twenty-one women—5 Democrats and 16 Republicans—had their bonnets in the Illinois primary election today hopeful of nomination for state or national office, and seven more were seeking selection as delegates to the Republican and Democratic national conventions.

The most widely known candidate was Mrs. Bertha Baur, wealthy widow of the late Jacob Baur, chemical manufacturer, who was making a second try for the congressional Republican nomination from the 9th district (Chicago).

Mrs. Baur has long been active in politics. She is now Republican national committee woman from Illinois and a member of the national platform committee. Endorsed by her district committee-men she had four opponents for the nomination.

Another well-to-do Chicago widow, Mrs. Amelia Laura Magee, the first woman to be appointed receiver in Cook county, was seeking the nomination for state auditor on a Republican non-factional platform. A newcomer to politics, she campaigned with the slogan "the plunder of distressed and helpless land holders in Illinois must cease."

"Ruth" His Opponent
Again the courtly United States Senator from Illinois, James Hamilton Lewis, had a "Ruth" for an opponent. In 1930 he defeated the Republican nominee, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms, for the office. Now in the Democratic primary his renomination was opposed by Ruth R. McNamara of Chicago, member of an investment concern.

In addition to Mrs. Baur three other Chicago women—Emily Reichert (R), Irene A. Tomas

(R), Florence Tye Jennison (D)—and one downstate—Mrs. Laura M. Gieseking (R) of Altamont—were seeking congressional nominations.

Only one woman, Mary Cowan McAdams (D) of Quincy, a former state representative, was seeking nomination to the state senate. But there were 13 women in the list for nomination a state representatives.

They were headed by several veteran campaigners, including Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill (R) of Downers Grove, seeking her seventh term; Josephine Perry (R) of Chicago, who has served two terms, and Mrs. Bernice T. Van Der Vries (R) of Winnetka, seeking re-election to the seat held by the late Mrs. Anna Jakes, wife of the U. S. Secretary of the Interior.

Others included: Mrs. Mary B. Funk (R) of Bloomington, writer and lecturer; Mrs. Leonora McDonald (D) of Winchester; Celestine D. Hoben (D) of Galesburg; and Mrs. Ida M. Keller (R) of East St. Louis.

Happy Surprise For Helen Rorer

Last evening the Swastika class of the Methodist church with about fifteen members present, met at the home of Miss Fern Grimes on Galena avenue, and held a happy surprise for one of their number, Miss Helen Rorer, a linen shower being given in her honor. Miss Rorer is soon to be married to Paul Grimes.

Games and refreshments and music occupied the happy evening hours. When the tempting luncheon was served, a feature was the lovely two-tiered cake in white with trimmings of pink and green, a miniature bride and groom gracing the top.

After a delightful evening all departed for their homes wishing Miss Rorer much happiness in advance.

Schultz-Hayen Wedding Saturday

Miss Sophia Schultz and William Hayen, popular young Milledgeville couple, were united in marriage at 7 o'clock Saturday night in St. John's Lutheran church parsonage by Rev. A. H. Keck of Sterling. The bride's cousin, Miss Evelyn Cassens, and the groom's cousin, Floyd Sheehan, were the attendants.

The bride wore a spring model of navy blue crepe fashioned in semi-tailored lines with a wide belt and harmonizing accessories. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and baby breath tied with white ribbon. Miss Cassens was in navy blue and tan and had a shoulder bouquet of roses and sweet peas.

Mrs. Hayen is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Werner Schultz northwest of Sterling. Mr. Hayen east of Milledgeville. He is engaged in farming with his father.

After the ceremony the couple left on a short honeymoon trip.

"The Dawning" Was Well Presented

Through an unintentional error the names of three characters in the cast of the pageant, "The Dawning," which was beautifully presented at Grace Evangelical church on Sunday evening were omitted when given to the Telegraph. They were Austin Smith, who played the part of Arimathea, Melvin Wedlake who portrayed Nicodemus, and Charles Smith, the disciple Matthew. Because of the illness of Edward Rinehart, Lawrence Palmer took the part of the cross-bearer. The performance was attended by a large and appreciative audience.

Miss Brooks Lec- tures in Amboy

OUR SERIOUS SENATORS

"Stirred by demands for economy in government, a special senate committee is at work on an exhaustive plan to reorganize government departments and agencies to eliminate duplication and useless activities," says a Washington dispatch. "The task will not be as easy as it sounds, leaders said. Donald R. Richberg, one of President Roosevelt's first advisers, has already given it up as a bad job."

That sounds as though the United States senators are seriously at work on plans to bring about economy in the administrative departments. We don't believe it.

Begging the pardon of the Hoover-haters, and assuring them that we are not urging Hoover for the presidency, we believe it is fair to state here what he accomplished in that direction and to say who halted the progress:

Throughout the eight years Mr. Hoover was in the department of commerce, he worked in season and out to bring about elimination of duplications of effort and to effect the economies that were possible in the administrative departments. Every effort collided head-on with the personal desires of senators and congressmen who had appointees in the government, appointees who would be affected adversely in some respect. Power of the bureaucrats always is underestimated, and although we have seen great multiplication of bureaus in the Roosevelt administration, they were powerful enough under Hoover.

Finally the secretary of commerce became the president of the United States and was in position to wield more influence and power. He set about reduction of cost of government by effecting these savings in the departments by elimination of duplications and by bringing about some consolidations.

President Hoover sought the power to bring about these changes himself, they all being in the executive departments, but that was too much power to give to a president, in the opinion of senators, after ponderous thought.

Imagine that! Senators who two years later appropriated in a lump sum about 5 billions of dollars to President Roosevelt to throw at the birds, without even the shadow of a plan before them, decided they could not allow President Hoover authority to save the taxpayers a tidy sum by changing some of the departments around.

That, we suppose, is what Professor Tugwell calls "democratic discipline." Anyhow, it's something. Going back to the subject of economy effected by re-arranging the departments, the congress authorized Hoover to proceed and to make plans, but the plans must be submitted to the congress for approval.

It all looks so silly, so preposterous, so impossible now that we are going over that paragraph again. The congress that demanded that President Hoover submit to it for approval a plan to save a considerable sum of money, appropriated approximately 5 billions of dollars in a lump sum without even asking President Roosevelt how he was going to waste it.

President Hoover's experts made the plan for elimination and consolidation in the departments and the saving of the people's money, and he submitted it for congressional approval.

Do you remember what happened to it? The democrats said: We are in control of the congress and we will have the presidency. We will not let Hoover re-arrange the departments. We will let Roosevelt do it.

As a result we are now 10 billions ahead in expenditures and three years behind in economy. Let Roosevelt do it.

JUST SUPPOSE

Just suppose that we do amend the constitution so that NRA and AAA as enacted by the Roosevelt congress should be able to stand. What have we done?

Go back to the beginning of them. We all were in substantial agreement about that time that restoration of fair exchange values to the farm was essential to a sound economic condition. What happened? Before it was possible to effect any such restoration, the congress enacted NRA, which did not close the margin between agriculture and industry, but widened it.

Shortening of hours and raising of pay can do nothing but increase prices, and that was just the thing that had brought ruin to the farmer, the maladjustment in exchange values between what he sold and what he bought.

There is no point to raising both industrial prices and farm prices, when the problem is to reduce the difference between them.

Roosevelt still clings to his notions of an NRA. The Guffey coal law is described as little NRA. The purpose of it is to increase coal prices which not only go directly into farm costs, but go indirectly into them in a hundred ways. The Guffey law is only a beginning.

Farm gains are going to be taken away from them by the same legislators who gave them. They are as responsive to the labor vote as they are to the farm vote and what they give to labor they take away from the farmer.

There is no logic in a farmer-labor party and there never was in this country.

When one gets a larger share of the dollar the other gets less. Processes of economics, if permitted to work, will bring about a natural and fair adjustment.

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

The Tiny girls slid to the ground, and bruii stood and looked around. "He sure stopped when I told him," the old prospector said.

"He knows he shouldn't disobey. Yes, sir, he has been trained that way. He also knows that, for his minding, he will be well fed."

"Oh, feeding him should be real fun. Please let me do it, when it's done," cried Doty. "What food does he eat, and just where is he fed?"

"Oh, bread and milk," the man replied. "And he is always fed inside my cabin. I've made him a bit that ties up near his head."

"In 'bout an hour it will be time. Right now, why doesn't someone climb aboard the husky fellow? Go on, Duncy, try your skill."

"I'll bet, when he starts running 'round that you'll be tossed off to the ground. Be careful you don't hurt yourself. If you do take a spill."

"Don't worry. I know I won't fall. Bear riding isn't hard at all," said

Duncy. Then he scrambled on the bear and yelled, "Giddap!"

The ride was very short because the bear stood up on his front paws. Poor Duncy almost landed in the old prospector's lap.

The other Times laughed in glee. "You're not so good, 'tis plain to see," said Doty. "Twas a funny sight to watch you fly through the air."

"We'd best call off the rides today, so on the ground we all can stay. What say we feed the bear, if the prospector doesn't care?"

Into the cabin they all went, where little Doty gaily spent a short time fixing bread and milk. The bear sat on a stool.

She started feeding him and he seemed just as tickled as could be. "Be careful," said the old man, "cause he spills some, as a rule."

(The Times decide to build a cart in the next story.)

No Flood Threat On Mississippi Say Engineers

CAIRO, Ill., April 13.—(AP)—While no serious flood threat is anticipated by U. S. engineers, the Mississippi river swollen by flood waters from its tributaries continued to climb slowly today.

W. E. Barron government meteorologist at Cairo, reported the river was up one tenth of a foot here to a stage of 52.6. He reported the river would continue to rise slowly for three or four days to a stage of not over 53 feet here by Friday giving new Madrid, Missouri not over 42 feet by Saturday.

Rains last week on the upper Ohio river sent that stream up one tenth of a foot to 45.1 at Shawneetown today.

The Ohio continued to climb slowly at Metropolis below the mouth of the Tennessee river.

Tourist travel to Florida in 1935, estimated at 1,750,000 was the heaviest since 1929, which totaled 1,925,000. In one day during the height of the season there were 500,000 visitors in Miami alone. More than 9,000 automobiles bearing out-of-Florida tags entered the state in one week. The Florida State Hotel association estimates its members will show an average increase of 25 per cent over last year.

NATIONALIZED BUSINESS NOTES

(As we might read them if Mussolini's nationalization of all large industries spreads.)

President Preston Pigdewitt, head of the National Coke and Godfish Corporation, has been summoned before the senate. It seems he put on a new office boy without notifying the government.

The directors of the Federated Window Sash Company, Inc., at their meeting today voted, subject to approval by the government, the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents, payable on a date to be announced by federal agents, provided the authorities think the company has the necessary money.

Officers of the Generalissimo Rubber Company resigned today and closed down the shop. They thought they were in the tire business but were notified by the government that they were manufacturers of hot water bottles.

Dudley G. Tootle, general manager of the Tootle Motors Corporation, was shot by a firing squad day before yesterday. He had equipped his office desks with blotters 22x19 inches when federal specifications called for 21x18.

The annual election of officers of the Coastal Railroads will be held tomorrow by the army and navy.

Chester H. Wickerwitz, chief of the Great Eastern Peanut Butter Corporation, who disappeared from his office the other day, has been located in the federal house-gow. He went to dinner with his stenographer without federal sanction.

There is confusion at the national shipbuilding offices and several of the officers have taken to drink. The plant, the most completely equipped in the country, has been notified by the government that from now on it will be expected to manufacture army leggings, horse halters and mustache wax.

Hymns Again Vie With 'Sweet Adeline' in Chicago

Chicagoans who were dazed when they heard the strains of "Rock of Ages" coming from the corner tavern can stop feeling their pulses. An old pre-prohibition custom was revived when, as shown above, a bunch of Salvation Army lads and lassies, the "Midnight Brigade," began whooping it up—for sweet charity's sake—in Chicago night spots. The proximity of Demon Rum hardly seemed to bother the good people as they mingled popular numbers with hymns to divert to their drum some of the charge sliding across the bar, the only charge made by the "Midnight Brigade."

Soil-depleting crops grown in this state include corn (field, sweet, broom and pop-corn), tobacco, cotton, Irish potatoes, sweet potatoes, sugar beets, cultivated sunflowers, commercial truck and canning crops, melons, strawberries, grain sorghums and sweet sorghums, small grains harvested for grain or hay, annual grasses harvested for hay or seed and annual legumes harvested for grain or hay, including soybeans, field beans, cow peas and field peas.

Soil-conserving crops are annual legumes, including vetch, winterpeas and crimson clover; biennial legumes, including sweet, red, alsike

NEW SOIL ACT EXPLAINED BY ADVISER YALE

Tells How it Would Work Out to Help Lee Farmers

A Lee county farmer operating 200 acres of land could qualify for $205 in grants under one typical example cited by Farm Adviser Yale to explain how the new soil conservation and domestic allotment act will work out in this county.

In 1935 this particular farmer had two 40-acre fields of corn, 40 acres of oats, 40 acres of clover and 40 acres of permanent pasture. His soil-depleting crop base, the first thing that must be determined under the new program, is 120 acres made up of the two 40-acre fields of corn and the 40 acres of oats.

His 1936 cropping system includes 25 acres of corn, another field of 40 acres of corn, 40 acres of oats, 15 acres of soybeans to be plowed down 40 acres of clover and 40 acres of permanent pasture. Before he is eligible either for the Class 1 soil-conserving payment or the Class 2 soil-building payment, he must, in 1936, have at least 15 per cent of his soil-depleting crop base in soil-conserving or soil-building crops. Fifteen per cent of this particular farmer's soil-depleting crop base of 120 acres is 18 acres.

He more than qualifies for payments inasmuch as his 1936 acreage of soil-conserving and soil-building crops on crop land includes 40 acres of clover and 15 acres of soybeans to be plowed down, or a total of 55 acres.

His Class 1, or soil-conserving payment, is based upon the number of acres of crop land diverted from soil depleting to soil-conserving or soil-building crops. In this particular case the 1936 acreage of soil-depleting crops is 105, indicating a 15-acre diversion from his previously determined soil-depleting base of 120 acres. On each of these 15 acres he received the soil-conserving, of Class 1, payment, which probably will average $10 an acre, depending upon the rate as finally determined for the state and the county. This would give this farmer a soil-conserving payment totaling $150.

APPLICATIONS FOR CROP LOANS ARE RECEIVED

Applications for emergency crop loans for 1936 are now being received at Lee County Farm Bureau Office by A. A. Shelton, field supervisor of the Emergency Crop Loan Section of the Farm Credit Administration.

The emergency crop loans will be made only to farmers who can not obtain credit from any other source, as provided by regulations issued by the governor of the Farm Credit Administration. The money loaned will be limited to the farmer's immediate and actual cash needs for growing his 1936 crops and in no instance may exceed $200 to one farmer.

Farmers are not eligible for emergency crop loans if they can borrow from an individual, production credit association, bank or other concern. Farmers will also be considered ineligible if they have an application pending with the Re-settlement Administration, received assistance from that organization this year or are indebted to the Re-settlement Administration for an unpaid loan.

In the past, the security for an emergency crop loan will consist of a first lien on the crop financed. Landlords or others having an interest in the crop to be financed will be required to waive their claims in favor of a lien to the governor of the Farm Credit Administration until the emergency crop loan is repaid.

Checks in payment of approved loans will be issued by the Regional Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office at St. Louis, Missouri.

Youth, 21, Is Held Fatal Shooting

Elizabethtown, Ill., April 13—(AP)—Elmer Jones, 21, was held today in the fatal shooting of Frank Holbrook, an electrician, following a coroner's jury report that Holbrook had met his death by a gunshot wound inflicted by Jones.

The report stated the shooting occurred "under circumstances amounting to murder."

Holbrook was shot Saturday as he stood near a theater. A witness said he had seen Holbrook and Jones talking just before the shooting. Jones, who had told authorities he knew nothing of the slaying, declined to testify at the inquest yesterday.

The anthracite coal mine at Summit Hill, Pa., has been burning since 1860.

MY PROJECT

By Donald Shaulis
Robert Folkers, Reporter

I started my first beef feeding project in September, 1933 by purchasing a Hereford steer in Savanna. When he reached my home he weighed 400 lbs; one week later he contracted shipping fever but with much care he soon recovered.

From time time until the steer was sold he gained an average of three pounds per day. I sold this steer in September, 1934 for ninety eight dollars and eighty-five cents. My total profit was $32.85.

In September 1934, I entered Dixon high school. For my Future Farmers' project I purchased another steer from John Morris who resided six miles east of town.

I feed him a ration of ground corn-cob meal, alfalfa hay, and ground oats. On August 15, 1935, I showed him in the Amboy 4-H club fair placing ninth. On August 18, I showed him at the Lee County Fair and Horse Show where I placed fourth.

The following data was summarized from my project records of 1935:

Total costs	$75.77
Total profit	$126.43
Paid self for labor	$22.40
Total income project	$39.03

In addition to this I had three acres of Krug corn which produced the following:

Total costs	$21.70
Paid self for labor	$10.00
Total profit	$18.70
Total income from project	$28.70

This year I have two Angus steers. In addition to this I will have five acres of Krug corn and five acres of hybrid corn.

OGLE COUNTY DAIRY REPORT GIVEN TODAY

The association average for the month of March was 792 pounds of milk, 29.5 pounds of fat with 406 cows on test from 18 herds. Forty of the 406 cows on test were dry. During the month 10 unprofitable cows were sold to the butcher. Ninety-nine cows each produced over 40 pounds of fat. None of the 3 separators tested were losing over .05 per cent.

A herd of 10 P. B. H. cows owned by Forrest Gillespie led the association with an average production of 1163 pounds of milk and 41.59 pounds of fat on 2 times-a-day milking. None of the 10 cows were dry. This herd was being fed 35 pounds of good corn silage each and 12 pounds of medium quality alfalfa hay. A 16.1 per cent protein grain ration composed of ground ear corn, brewers grain, bran, and ground soybeans was fed at 4 to 1 ratio.

Lee M. Gentry's herd of 37 P. B. H. was second in production with an average of 1097 pounds of milk and 40.66 pounds of fat. One of the 37 cows on test was dry.

J. W. Heminway's herd of 9 P. B. H. averaged 1087 pounds of milk and 40.44 pounds of fat. No cows were dry.

FRANK PRIEBE'S WEEKLY LETTER to POULTRY RAISERS

Several times I have written you about New Hampshire chickens. Lately I have been hearing more about them.

A produce man in Iowa wrote me last week, "That customer of mine who bought those New Hampshire chicks was in today and wanted to know how soon he could get five hundred more as he said they were the best chicks he ever bought."

On the 28th of March an Iowa hatcheryman wrote, "My first lot of New Hampshire were ten weeks old this week and they average a little over three pounds."

The fact that they mature so quickly and grow so large was that first interested me in this breed of chickens. At five to six weeks they should weigh a pound and a half. And a Kansas produce dealer tells me they do!

He has interested a number of 4-H club members in his community in New Hampshire. He ordered the hatching eggs for them from the finest flocks in New Hampshire.

Farmers Pleased With New Breed

Last Saturday he visited three of the club members whose major project this year is raising these chickens. They are from four to six weeks old and out of a total of 1250 chicks he tells me 1221 are still living.

The parents are as proud of the chicks as the children. "The only thing wrong with them is that they eat too much!" one father exclaimed, laughing. He had just come back from town with several more sacks of feed. All the chicks are being raised on a good commercial feed.

Evidently the hatcherymen are right when they advise their customers, "If you are afraid to feed, don't order New Hampshire!" One breeder tells me that during the growing period these chicks can consume more feed than any other breed he has ever raised. When they have reached their full size—pullets weigh from 5½ to 6½ pounds—they eat no more than any heavy breed that is laying well.

I am extremely interested in watching to see how this breed works in the Middle West. If New Hampshire prove as profitable generally as they have in the instances I have heard about, I am sure that more of you will want to try them next year.

I shall probably write you about them from time to time to let you know how fast they are putting on weight!

Sincerely Yours,
Frank Pribe

WORKING AGE OF 47 YEARS URGED FOR AMERICANS

President Outlined His Proposal in Speech
Monday Evening

Baltimore, April 14.—(AP)—Offering the suggestion that the active working years of every American breadwinner be limited to 47. President Roosevelt had placed before the nation today a broad outline of the New Deal's position on the major problem of unemployment.

Amid the cheers of supporters who had gathered for a Democratic rally after an old-time torchlight parade last night Roosevelt called on youth to be "social pioneers" and help "bring under control the forces of modern society."

Devoting most of his address to a discussion of continuing large-scale unemployment, the president promised that it would be attacked "from every conceivable angle." But it was his suggestion for limits on the wage-earning life span that aroused much discussion and speculation today.

Raising the question whether it is not "possible and right to limit the active working ages at both ends," he said:

"No Indicated Program.
"Work out for yourselves what would happen if all the boys and all the girls of 14 and 15 and 16 and 17 who are now working in industry, found it possible to stay in school until they were at least 18 years old. How many jobs would that give to the young people of the nation who have graduated from high school and from college?"

"In the same way, ask yourselves how many jobs would be created if the great majority of people who are now over 65—to take a figure at random—were in a position to retire in security for the balance of their days on earth."

Roosevelt did not indicate whether the administration is planning specific proposals along these lines, beyond the social security and other programs already enacted.

But he did indicate that the New Deal, despite the invalidation of NRA, still hopes to attain certain of that experiment's objectives. He said the government "must and will give consideration" to shorter hours, stability of employment and "adequate minimum wages."

Plea to Industry.
Again, he called on industry to "undertake reasonable reductions of hours of work per week, while, at the same time, they keep the average individual's pay envelope at least as large as it is today."

High-placed Democrats in congress and the executive branch sat on the platform in the huge armory as he addressed his words to members of the Young Democratic Clubs of Maryland gathered for a Jefferson birthday celebration and to a nation-wide radio audience.

In the light of flaming torches, accompanied by bands and the tramp of troops, the club members had come to the rally in a four-mile march through Baltimore streets.

Big Guns in Parade.
Vice President Garner rode in an open automobile in the procession, followed by Speaker Byrnes, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Postmaster General James A. Farley and other leaders.

The president's speech was studied today as a text for many a Democratic campaign speaker in the months to come. He started with a discussion of youth's problems, saying:

"Flaming youth has become a flaming question. And youth comes to us wanting to know what we propose to do about a society that hurts so many of them?"

Production, he said, is about back to the pre-depression high point, but employment is only about 80 per cent as great. But he emphatically rejected predictions of a "vast permanent army of unemployed," saying "no man who is sensitive to human values dares to accept" such forecasts.

1,300 LIVES IN COMPILATION OF NATURE'S TOLL

Cold, Floods and Wind
Storms Caused Death and Destruction

(Copyright, 1936, by The Associated Press)

New York, April 14.—Nature, attacking with every means of its command in one of its greatest offensives in years, has caused 1,300 deaths in the United States since Jan. 1.

An unusually cold winter took a heavy toll, and the spring thaws brought heavy floods which drowned hundreds. Southern tornadoes completed the disaster roll.

An Associated Press survey showed at least 542 persons died from causes related to the severely cold weather, 548 from tornadoes, gales and lightning, and 214 from floods.

Tornadoes at Tupelo, Miss., and Gainesville, Ga., and the floods at Pittsburgh, Johnstown, Pa., and Wheeling, W. V., took the heaviest toll.

Other Toll Estimated
The American Red Cross estimated that besides lives lost, major and minor disasters injured 4,924 persons, affected 622,060, destroyed 6,583 homes and damaged 44,629. Property damage ran into hundreds of millions of dollars.

Only five states—Arizona, Louisiana, Nevada, New Mexico, and Texas—did not report any deaths.

The toll from wave after wave of subzero weather and blizzards early in the year included deaths from exposure, some automobile accidents, in which snow or sleet figured, winter sports, heart attacks induced by shoveling snow or fighting a way through storms.

Several persons died of carbon monoxide poisoning in automobiles stalled in snowdrifts.

The freighter Iowa was wrecked in a gale off the Oregon coast, with 34 members of the crew losing their lives.

A shortage of cotton (not jackrabbits) was averted by the Kansas game department through an embargo in 1934. The embargo has since been lifted.

It is said that, if the prevailing wind of the eastern United States were to reverse themselves, the climate would become semi-tropical and rainfall would be very heavy.

Population of the Netherlands East Indies has increased about 7 per cent since 1920. It is now more than 1,000,000.

AUTOMOBILE MAK- ERS WALKED OUT OF U. S. CHAMBER

Quit Commerce Organization After Year of Disputes

Washington, April 14.—(AP)—The Automobile Manufacturers Association, trade organization of the giant motor industry, has resigned from the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Except to confirm the "walkout," neither business group would comment today, but informed business circles said the motor manufacturers were not satisfied with the chamber's support of federal bus and truck legislation.

The chamber, the largest business association in the nation, is now negotiating with the automobile manufacturers in an attempt to close the breach. Meanwhile several individual manufacturers maintain their membership in the chamber.

Dispute Year Old
The dispute began at the chamber's convention a year ago when a resolution was passed calling "for establishment of federal regulation of all forms of interstate transportation without further delay."

Co-ordination of these different forms of transportation is essential. The automobile group was said to feel this resolution was dictated by railroad interests, and assertions were made at the time that the committee which put forth the declaration was "packed" by railroads.

Second Dissent
The auto group's resignation is the second time within recent months that the chamber has encountered some internal dissent. When the organization conducted a referendum among its members recently on trends of government legislation, some local chambers resigned from the central body, protesting that the referendum was so phrased as to produce a vote indicating business was hostile to the New Deal.

Officials of the chamber said today, however, that its records showed a substantial increase in memberships and contributions.

A New Way to Dissipate Savings

PART II

By WALTER E. SPAHR
Secretary, Economists' National Committee on Monetary Policy

The Administration, in proposing a tax on undistributed corporation income, says that when business need money after their surpluses are distributed they can use the money in a number of ways. They can pay dividends to their stockholders for more by selling them more securities, or the corporations can use the money to develop new products, or they can use the money to pay off their debts, or they can use the money to pay off their taxes, or they can use the money to pay off their other obligations. But what about the surpluses of insurance companies?

For many years our preceding Administrations have worked hard to develop taxes on corporations in the form of the income tax and otherwise, and such a tax has been proposed of a steady income of about $1 billion per year. Is a government acting wisely to toss aside a certain amount of income like this, and gamble with all the uncertainties and dangers involved in this new device for increased spending and for the dissipation of accumulated wealth?

The scheme assumes that the government officials will be better qualified than the officers and directors of a corporation to determine what should be allowed for certain expenses and what should be paid in dividends. The answer to that assumption is obvious.

The proposed rates of taxation (27-40 percent, suggested) are apparently to be progressive according to the amount of the surplus. But the amount of the surplus has no particular significance apart from the size of the capital, the nature of the risks affecting the business, or the need for surplus. It is only the judgment of the officers and directors of the corporation that can decide with wisdom the matter of the proper size of the surplus. Such progressive tax rates have no bearing upon what is a proper or wise surplus in a given situation.

Why such a proposal? If it is unsound as a tax measure, what is its purpose?

Have we forgotten the President's tax plan to "soak the rich," introduced in the last session of Congress? The present plan appears to be of the same general brand. The official interviews create the impression that the "money" is to come from the "big fellows." But as usual it will be the little fellow, the laborer, who will finally be soaked. And the laborer does not understand it. And any statement that "appears" to soak the big corporation or the big fellow, but in fact soaks the little fellow, is a political device, that seems to be the assumption of the Administration in power.

This new tax proposal will not bear a searching analysis from an economic point of view. Is it a political scheme of some sort with the capacity to defraud the general public? Regardless of the purpose or possible lack of understanding of its true nature, it will prove to be a fraud upon the laboring man, upon the little fellow. It will contribute to the destruction of the sources from which the government has been able to draw its funds. It is a program of profligate spending and waste. It is another step toward bankruptcy, to thrift, to wise and prudent saving and investment. It is a part of the amazing notion which seems to predominate in Administration circles that saving and thrift are a terrible mistake and a frightful survival of barbarism and that unbearable "conservatism." It is a plan which, if we should have another depression, would force the whole population of this nation into the ranks of the unemployed.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

TOBY RYAN, 19, is a photographic model, posing for photographs to be used in advertisements. Unknown at first, she is soon in high demand in the studio, particularly after she is chosen as "The Hillyer Soap Girl."

Toby shares an apartment with HARRIET HOUM, another model, engaged to marry CLYDE SABIN, whom Toby met at a party.

Weakly TIM JAMIESON shows Toby with attention for a time, and then seems to forget her. Toby's oldest friend is BILL BRANDT, who works in an advertising agency. She is fond of him, but has never thought of him romantically.

JAY HILLER, president of the Hillyer company, area Toby posing for some photographs. He takes her to dinner and later she has several other engagements.

Toby and Harriet take part in a style show. Harriet, dressed as a bride, is waiting to go on when Toby remembers she has a letter for her. She gives Harriet the letter.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXX

HARRIET said, "Oh, Toby—" In a voice that barely above a whisper. A few moments before she had been a picture of bridal beauty—the loveliest bride.

Toby had thought that she had ever seen. Now Harriet's face was drenched of color—whiter than the gown she wore or the filmy veil about her shoulders. Her eyes, bleakly bewildered, stared at Toby's.

"What is it?" Toby demanded again. "Harriet, what's happened?" Instead of answering, Harriet looked at the letter she was still clutching in her hand. "Read it," she said, holding it out to Toby.

It was the letter Clyde Sabin had written. Toby took it, hastily read the brief paragraphs.

"Dear Harriet: When you get this I will be on my way to California. This morning I was married to Mrs. Lurchfield. You probably remember that her husband, who died last winter, was an officer of the company.

"I hope you will not take this too hard, Harriet. My only excuse for not telling you sooner is that I couldn't bear to hurt you. But I am sure it is really for the best. I will always think of you as one of the sweetest girls I have ever known, and some day I know you will meet someone who will make you as happy as you deserve to be."

Toby said, "Oh, darling, I'm so sorry!" The words sounded trivial and meaningless. Harriet was still standing there, ghostly white. There was no sign of tears in her eyes, no sign of emotion at all in her face except that she pressed her lips together, trying to steady her breathing.

"You ought to sit down," Toby said, putting an arm around her. "Here—I'll send the maid to get something for you."

But there was no time. Miss Wylie, the director of the style show, appeared and said crisply, "Is everyone ready? Line up, you bridesmaids. Where's our bride?" She motioned toward Harriet. "You go in last," she said. "All right now. We're ready—"

Toby turned to Harriet. "But you can't," she said. "You can't go on now. Someone else will have to take your place."

Harriet shook her head. "No," she said. "I'm all right. I'll go on."

"But you shouldn't—" Harriet was not listening. "My flowers," she said, turning to the maid. "Where are my flowers?"

A FEW moments later, the bridal bouquet in her arms, she was walking slowly, steadily out on the stage. Toby was never to forget the picture of Harriet in the gleaming satin gown, her lovely red hair beneath the cap of lace and the long veil floating back from her shoulders. Harriet has never looked more beautiful. Toby's own heart was pounding and she stole anxious glances at her roommate, but Harriet looked completely calm.

She was like that afterwards in the dressing room. She took off the wedding gown and got into her street clothes with exactly her usual care. She stopped to put powder on her nose and see that the brim of her hat tilted over her eye as it should.

On the street, Toby said, "We'll take a cab home." Harriet said, "Don't talk like that. Toby."

"But it's true, every word of it. I'd like a chance to tell him what I think of him."

Harriet shook her head. "I—I just can't seem to believe it's happened," she said. "I can't seem to realize I won't see him again. Everything's over. It's ended—"

"But it isn't, darling. Everything's just beginning. A man who could do a thing like that isn't worth a minute's regret. It's going to be hard for a while, of course, but you'll be glad some day it happened this way. I know you will!"

Harriet said, "But he loved me. Toby. He really loved me once."

"You're better off without that kind of love. It's the money he was thinking about. Don't you see that?"

"It's just that I can't realize it's happened—"

THEY stayed at home that evening. Toby prepared hot soup and toast and a salad. She spread the table with a gay linen cloth and set out the food, but Harriet scarcely touched it. Her eyes still had the dazed, bewildered look.

She didn't say any more about Clyde Sabin. Harriet's silence bothered Toby. "If she'd only stop holding back," she thought. "If she'd only cry or storm around and throw things, she'd get over it sooner."

When Toby tried to talk to her about other things—anything to take her mind off Clyde—her answers were brief. She picked up a magazine and then, a little later, said that she thought she'd go to bed.

Toby was away from the apartment most of the next day. She came in at 5 o'clock to find Harriet, in a negligee, curled up on the davenport.

"Bill called and asked me to have dinner with him," Toby said, "but I told him I didn't know—"

"You'd better go," Harriet told her. "There isn't much here to eat. I had a late lunch and I'm not hungry."

"You're sure you'll be all right?" Toby hadn't promised to meet Bill because she was uneasy about leaving Harriet alone.

"Of course I'll be all right."

Mount Morris—In a swimming meet between teams from Mount Morris Community gymnasium and Preepport Y. M. C. A. Saturday, the local Neptunes outplashed their rivals, barely nosing them out by the score of 3-22. Some fine times were turned in by the youngsters as the following results show:

20-yd. free style: Gochnaur (F), first; Gratty (MM), second; B. Miller (MM), third. Time, 9.7 seconds.

20-yd. back stroke: Gochnaur (F), first; Kump (MM), second; Asp (MM), third. Time, 14 seconds.

20-yd. breast stroke: Asp (MM), first; Priller (MM), second; Rayborn (F), third. Time, 14.7 seconds.

40-yd. free style: Gochnaur (F), first; Asp (MM), second; Gratty (MM), third. Time, 23 seconds.

80-yd. relay: Freepport (Gochnaur, Miller, Planbach, Popov, first; Mount Morris (Cratty, B. Miller, R. Miller, Rothmeyer), second. Time, 48 seconds.

The two teams will meet again next Friday evening, this time in the Freepport pool.

School Directors Re-elected.

Despite the opposition which has been manifested during the past few months, the present incumbents on the grade school board who were up for re-election, easily weathered the squall, and were returned for another three years by comfortable majorities. Rev. N. A. Bolinger, defeated Ralph C. Crowler for president, by a count of 268 to 168, while Otto Hudson won 235 and Harold Ross with 306, won over Mrs. Alto L. Barnizer and Franklin C. Mitchell, who polled 169 and 160 respectively.

For the high school board, Harry Baker and J. Walker Robbins were elected for another term, in an election in which only a mild vote was registered, their being no opposition to their candidacies.

WHAT A DIFFERENCE 100 YEARS MAKE! But Glamour of Bride Dominates Century's Extremes of Costume

Highlighting the costumes of "Brides of Two Centuries," a unique bridal fashion show in New York brought the old and new wedding gowns into interesting contrast. The gown of white tulle, above, was copied by Helen Virginia Meyer from a costume worn in 1838 by the first bride ever to choose orange blossoms. It has a two-tiered skirt, banded with lace, and charming long sleeves, fashioned from a series of puffs of organza, held in place with sprigs of orange blossoms. Incidentally, the costume uses 132 yards of lace.

At right is a youthful 1936 spring wedding gown of silk lace in a delicate shade of azalea pink. It has an enormous train, banded with rows of satin in matching shade. The veil is a circular affair, edged with satin, and held in place with a tiara of azalea blossoms.

The maid of honor wears a net and lace creation in a slightly deeper shade of azalea pink. Her lovely net hat is bound with an even darker tone of the same color. Incidentally, the bridesmaids at the fashion show wedding were in azalea lace to match the bridal costume.

DAILY HEALTH

DIATHERMY.

Diathermy means the generation of heat in body tissues due to resistance offered by the tissues to the high frequency electric current forced through them.

The electrical energy utilized in diathermy is similar to that employed in radio. In diathermy, however, the wave lengths of the high frequency electric currents employed are of 300 meters and less. In so-called short-wave diathermy wave lengths of between 3 and 30 meters are employed.

Diathermy has been successfully applied in the treatment of various types of injuries, in diseases of the joints and muscles and in numerous internal diseases. Acute inflammation, however, do not react well to diathermy treatment.

During the last 10 years extensive progress has been made in the utilization of diathermy treatments employing a wave length of 30 meters and less. It has been found that these shorter waves can pass through the air from one electrode to the other. It has also been found that if one interposes a dielectric (in medical use the dielectric is some portion of the body) in the pathway of these shorter waves, it becomes hot. The heat is engendered by the rapid alternation of the direction of the current. This alternation, termed frequency, may be from 10 to 30 million times a second.

These short waves have erroneously been called death rays, the reason being that when small animals are exposed to their effects they die quickly from overheating. In long-wave (300 meters) diathermy, the electrodes padded with cotton and soaked in saline solution are applied directly to the skin. When the short waves are used no direct contact with the skin is needed.

Short-wave diathermy has been employed with remarkable results in the treatment of boils, carbuncles, bone diseases, sinusitis (sinus infections) and lung abscesses.
